Some schools have an outdoor lesson once a week. This lesson is called Forest School. These children are building with sticks in their Forest School lesson.

Rocky rescue!

by Jawad

I'm with my dad, Laith. We live in Amman in Jordan. We go walking together in the most exciting place in Jordan: near Petra! There is no wind and it's very hot today and we walk very quickly down the Siq trail. It is more difficult than walking on a road!

Suddenly, I see some big rocks across the trail! My dad falls over. I walk to the side of the trail, but he is on the floor in the middle of the trail. His leg is hurt. He's hot and tired.

What can I do? Dad can't walk because of his leg. I can't carry him because he's very big.

Then I remember my whistle. We always carry whistles when we go walking in the desert. I find the whistle and I make the loudest sound I can! I blow six times. That's the emergency signal. Then I hear another whistle! Soon the helicopter is here. It takes Dad to the hospital. He's safe!
